ARTS SOPHS. WON DEBATE LAST NIGHT

Defeated Arts '23 at Arts
Undergraduate Meeting

POOR ATTENDANCE

Wells, Penrose, and Everett on Faculty Debating Team

There was an unusually small attendance at the meeting of the Arts Undergraduate Society held last night in the Union, at which the main event of the evening was the final debate between Arts '23 and Arts '25, won by the latter.

The chairman, Amaron, in opening the meeting, appealed to the students to send to the Sraphona Hall any old clothing or technical books today, as such articles are needed by the European students. A letter had also been received from the Daily asking the students to support the paper by procuring advertisements for it. Puddicombe announced that it had been decided to have an Interfaculty Hockey League during the coming holidays. There would be six teams in all. The idea being to give everybody a chance to play hockey. Willard was elected manager of the Arts hockey team for these holiday games. Cope, the newly elected Arts representative on the Students' Council, said a few words, thanking the men for their support to him. As the Commercial Society had definitely decided to break away from the Arts Undergraduate Society, an amendment must be put into the constitution before this can be accomplished. A motion will have to be brought up and passed excluding the Commercial Society from the Arts Society. This motion will be voted upon at the next regular meeting of the Arts Undergraduate Society. There was a discussion concerning whether a man could belong to both the Commercial Society and Arts Undergraduate Society at the same time. It was finally decided that in this notice of change of constitution, there should be added the fact that a man could only belong to one society, not the both.

The important event on the program was the final Inter-class Debate between Arts '23 and Arts '25. The subject of the debate was: "Resolved, that the United States should enter the League of Nations immediately." Wells and Freeman upheld the affirmative for the Seniors while Penrose and Everett represented the Sophs. The judges of the debate were Dean Laing, Bert Tremaine, and Sid Harris.

The first speaker was Mr. Wells, leader of the affirmative. He said that the League of Nations came into being as a result of the Great War. The League had done good work, had pre-

DISTRIBUTION OF COUPONS TO-DAY

"Daily Week" Forms Obtainable from Class President

Printed forms will be distributed to the students to-day by the Faculty representatives on the Students' Council, and the class presidents, so that the men may fill them out, showing where they do their shopping. The forms are similar to the ones that have been appearing in the Daily for some time, but have been issued on special sheets so that the undergraduates will not even have the trouble of cutting them out.

Hundreds of replies to the questions asked in the form have already been turned in to the office, but they will not be satisfied until one has been received from every man in the college. It is only a matter of a few minutes work to fill in the space above the dotted lines, and the information received will be invaluable to the advertising department of the paper. It is not necessary to put the form in an envelope, but it may simply be dropped in the box on the office door in the basement of the Union, or left on the letter rack of the Union addressed to the McGill Daily.

The general campaign for Daily Week continues to be very successful. The returns are coming in fast, and it is expected that they will swell considerably when all of the students have really got down to work. The full time allotted for the drive is very short, however, and it is absolutely necessary that action should be taken immediately by everyone if the object desired is to be attained.

STUDENTS TO HEAR DR. J. L. JOSHI TODAY

Noted Scholar from India to Speak in R.V.C.

AT 5 P.M.

Under Auspices of McGill
Canadian Club

McGill will have the opportunity of hearing another famous speaker this afternoon, when Dr. J. L. Joshi, of the College of Baroda India, will speak in the R.V.C. Convocation Hall at 5 p.m. under the auspices of the Canadian Club of McGill.

Dr. Joshi came to the United States under the system of interchange of professors between the English and American systems. The former, he declared, is designed to be thought over carefully, while the latter is, graphically speaking, designed to be read on the street-car. It is difficult to reconcile the Canadian system with either of the above two, no distinctive Canadian method having been developed. Speaking as a journalist with 20 years of experience, the speaker proceeded to outline a very effective way of preparing a news article.

The "headline" should be so designed as to attract instantly the attention of the reader. The "lead" should serve to quicken his interest and grip his attention, making him eager for the main details of the story which follows. The story proper should naturally be told as attractively as possible so that the reader may feel that it was well worth the reading.

"MEDICINE" DEBATES AGAINST "SCIENCE"

Liquor Question Will Be Discussed

To-morrow, in the Union, the first inter-faculty debate of the season takes place. Under the auspices of the Literary and Debating Society of the University, the Faculty of Medicine will meet the Faculty of Applied Science. Speaking will commence at eight o'clock sharp.

The subject under discussion is one that is at the present time occupying the minds of many men high up in the government of the country, as well as may of the "rank and file." Scott and Fisher, of Medicine, both of whom have, on previous occasions, given

G. F. Wright Tells Members
Secrets of Craft

HOW TO WRITE

Practical Directions on News
Writing Please Hearers

It has been the policy of the Daily managing board in recent years to secure at different times a prominent newspaper man to deliver an address to the staff wherein hints and advice on how to facilitate news-writing as well as editorial writing are given, and with this end in view, they secured as the first of these Mr. George F. Wright, editor of the Montreal Star. Those members of the staff who last night availed themselves of this excellent opportunity to improve their writings were privileged to hear a most interesting and instructive talk.

Before beginning to speak on his subject, Mr. Wright declared that he preferred not to adopt the attitude of a lecturer but rather by a practical discussion to convey to his hearers the information he wished to impart to them. The first phase of news writing that the speaker spoke about was the "news story". In order that an article of this nature may be successful, the most essential point to be borne in mind by the reporter is the absolute necessity of having a definite fact in each sentence. Furthermore, he must at all times "have his ear to the ground" so to speak, and be in constant touch with the thoughts of others. If he assimilates what other people are thinking of, the article will not assume a definite shade of thought color, something which is to be strictly avoided in news writing, for this belongs to the editorial columns, and the one should not overlap the other. With regard to the arrangement of the news article, Mr. Wright drew a comparison between the English and American systems. The former, he declared, is designed to be thought over carefully, while the latter is, graphically speaking, designed to be read on the street-car. It is difficult to reconcile the Canadian system with either of the above two, no distinctive Canadian method having been developed. Speaking as a journalist with 20 years of experience, the speaker proceeded to outline a very effective way of preparing a news article.

The "headline" should be so designed as to attract instantly the attention of the reader. The "lead" should serve to quicken his interest and grip his attention, making him eager for the main details of the story which follows. The story proper should naturally be told as attractively as possible so that the reader may feel that it was well worth the reading.

POST-PONEMENT DEEMED PRUDENT

Mock Parliament Will Not Meet Tomorrow Evening

The Mock Parliament, scheduled for to-morrow evening, has been indefinitely postponed. Such was the action taken by the Literary and Debating Society, acting in conjunction with the Cabinet of the Mock Parliament, at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. This action, regrettable though it was deemed to be, was necessary, as only a sparse attendance was assured, due to the many other attractions for the same date, notably the "McGill Nite" at a local theatre. It was felt advisable to cancel the gathering entirely, rather than to have called and be scantily received.

From present indications it is not thought that the second session will be held before the last days of January, because of the mid-term examinations which take place during this latter month. Ambitious plans had been perfected by the Government to ensure their continued supremacy, while the Opposition was equally determined to oust the Constitutionists from their position upon the right of the Speaker. Rumours have also been current as to the formation of a Communist Party, but to date there have been no definite developments, so far as known. These schemes will probably bear fruition in the New Year.

A COMMITTEE OF SCHEDULES

The announcement made necessary in this issue of the indefinite postponement of the Mock Parliament, reveals at once an abundance and a deficiency at McGill—an abundance of activity and a deficiency in the control and arrangement of that activity. Each year it is being more forcibly impressed upon those who have an interest in the efficient management of affairs about the Campus, that some form of co-ordination in the making of schedules and setting of dates for various events of importance is essential if each organization is to receive the support it deserves from the student body. The schedule for the next ten days is a potent reminder that some clubs will be disappointed in the apparent lack of concern manifested in their undertakings by the undergraduate; due to no fault of their own, and in spite of the desire of the student to be present at their individual gatherings, through the press of other meetings taking place upon the same night theirs will be sparsely attended. The faculty of being in more than one place at the same time, unfortunately, is one not to be found in the college man.

The remedy is obvious, and we believe, simple and effective: This condition could quite well be overcome by the formation of a committee to meet at the beginning of the session to draught the schedule for happenings of prominence so that there would be no conflict in the dates chosen. In this way each activity would not be discouraged by insufficient turn-outs, and each would be accorded the reception that the students are willing to offer if not distracted by multifarious demands upon their time. It is to be hoped that this question will be given more than cursory examination by those in a position to take definite action. A means to avoid a clash of fixtures, and to augment attendances at college events, is at least worthy of a trial.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The arrangement suggested at the meeting of the Arts Undergraduates' Society last night for a working agreement between the two factions seems to be the only plausible scheme upon which to settle until the two become separate faculties. That there should be two distinct undergraduate associations, who will vote, nevertheless, as one faculty in matters of common concern, such as the election of representatives to the Students' Council and to the Union House Committee, is a proposition which we trust will meet with the favourable consideration of those in whose hands the decision rests.

Music is confirming its place in the undergraduate activities of McGill. "McGill Nite" at the Allen tomorrow, "Jazz Tea" in the Union on Thursday afternoon and the Glee Club concert at the Royal Victoria College that same evening, all serve to emphasize the fact that the Musical Association has a certain role to fill at the University, and that it is taking that part in a fitting manner. All these merit the attention of the students and it is safe to assume that such will be meted to them, despite the circumstance that there may be other affairs to dissipate interest.

Science and Medicine meet this evening in the Union in the first of the series of Inter-Faculty Debates to be conducted under the auspices of the Literary and Debating Society. The subject is one that should attract an appreciative audience, and it is to be hoped that a representative crowd will greet the speakers when they rise to speak. The Intercollegiate Debates will not be held until the New Year, allowing ample time for the careful selection of four men to represent McGill against Varsity and Queen's. These men will be chosen from those participating in these Inter-Faculty Debates, and also from those who appear upon the floor of the Mock Parliament.

The provision made by the Hockey Club for practice by whom who will be in town over the holidays calls for the highest commendation. Besides evidencing the fact that the management of the Club is impartially interested in those who may not be able to gain an immediate place upon the Senior squad, it will serve a useful purpose in offering the players an opportunity of conditioning themselves in a manner that could not be achieved otherwise. It will undoubtedly work to stimulate activity in hockey circles at McGill, particularly in the case of those men new to college who might possibly be hesitant about bringing themselves forward.

vented four wars. Many problems could be settled if the League would get the support of the United States. He claimed that she is not playing the game by staying out of the League of Nations.

Everett, the first speaker on the negative, said that public opinion in the United States was against the League because they thought that their country would be sacrificing their own interests to those of other nations, although he admitted that public opinion is now changing in favor of the League in view of the great work which it has done.

The next speaker was Freeman, of the affirmative side. He dealt with the prospects of another war and its effects upon our civilization. He quoted Sir Robert Borden as saying ing that the human race would annihilate itself due to the great advancement which science has made in the realms of warfare. He said that war has come to take on an international prospect and might bring chaos to civilization, and to prevent this taking place it would be necessary for the United States to join the League immediately.

The last speaker was Penrose, on the negative side. He maintained that the United States takes an interest in the peace of the world and an interest in its people. As an example of this he said that they had already given fifty million dollars to the starving people in Russia. He maintained that Article X of the League of Nations was in direct opposition to the constitution of the United States as the Congress alone has the power of declaring war. He quoted Elihu Root as saying that all the United States objections could be met without impairing the usefulness of the League. Dean Laing, as leader of the judges,

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE OF THE PAPER ONLY.

The Editor,
McGill Daily:

Dear Sir,—As a former member of the now defunct Players' Club, I should like to endorse your recent editorial remarks on the present imbroglio with the utmost cordiality.

Mr. E. W. Willard seems to be the only student who has displayed either interest or courage in the matter. In fact, I intend to display a good deal less courage than Mr. Willard by skulking, wisely I think, behind the veil of anonymity. If anyone thinks I am over-cautious, let him consult Mr. Willard.

As you have probably perceived, Mr. Editor, the only solution of the present impasse is the formation of some dramatic society entirely independent of any department or departments in this University. As this letter will remain unsigned I shall pass no judgments on the past conduct of the English Department in their management of the Players' Club.

Suffice it to say that it was impossible for the Players' Club to continue any longer under the old constitution of the club. The executive saw that dissolution was the only possible course, but they were undoubtedly mistaken in imagining that their responsibility was at an end. Those students of McGill who were interested in amateur theatricals had entrusted them with their interests at the beginning of the present session, and the responsibility—the moral responsibility—of the executive did not end with the dissolution of the club. I do not intend this letter to be a criticism of the executive of the Players' Club, but merely as an incentive for them to break the tomb-like silence that has hitherto enveloped them.

I hope, Mr. Editor, you will not think me chicken-hearted for remaining under a pseudonym, but you see I am a Parsee, and the man in whose boarding-house I live, who is also a Parsee, would undoubtedly throw me out upon the street if he thought I had attempted any criticism of the University, which God forbid.

Yours very truly,
RATINABATH TRAPDOOR.

"OLD MCGILL" IS WELL UNDER WAY

Subscription Lists Close This Week

The weekly meeting of the 1924 Annual Board will be held in the Union at 5.15 p.m. to-day. Important business will be discussed, and the Editor-in-Chief wishes all members of the Board to endeavour to attend. The Annual Board has been functioning for nearly six weeks, and in that short time, a goodly part of Volume XXVI of "Old McGill" has been compiled. The subscription lists, in the hands of each class executive, have not yet been withdrawn, the students being given extra time during which to sign up. They will be withdrawn immediately, therefore students desiring "Old McGill," who have not already signed up, must do so without delay to avoid disappointment.

The Photograph Editor, R. W. N. Burroughs, reports that many proofs of individual pictures, class and group photographs have not yet been returned to Notman's. Those delaying are materially hindering the progress of the Annual.

The contract for printing and engraving the Annual will be let this week, and by the advent of 1923, it is hoped that the publication of the book will be well under way. Club write-ups are not being submitted as quickly as desired, and it is necessary that all will be in the hand of the Board before McGill closes for the holiday. An earlier appearance of the Annual than in previous years, depends on the continued co-operation of the student body. Only enough Annuals the subscription lists.

said a few words. He said that the judges were unanimous that this was the best debate of the series. He praised Wells for his able presentation and rebuttal. The decision was given to the negative side.

Read, the Arts representative on the Literary and Debating Society, gave a resumé of the progress of the debates and the manner in which the Faculty team was picked. He said that all the debates were very successful and that the men were very much interested in debating. After each debate the judges gave their opinion as to who was the best speaker, and in this way the team could be picked. Luckily, this year, the best debaters picked by the judges were in the finals and their task of picking the team was made much easier. He announced that Wells, Penrose and Everett would constitute the Faculty debating team. Freeman of Arts '23 and Shepherd of Arts '26 also came in for their share of praise.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Do you go to the games only to see the play or to help your college out? Men with the right spirit can do a lot by dropping a word about the Daily.

"McGILL NITE" IS TOMORROW NIGHT

Mandolin Club Ready With Excellent Programme

For several days Red and White posters have been very conspicuous around the college advertising "McGill Nite" at the Allen Theatre on Wednesday evening, when the McGill Mandolin and Banjo Orchestra are giving a musical programme.

A practice was held last evening, and if their playing at this rehearsal was any criterion, the Allen audience will be in for a treat when these twenty-five men go before them on Wednesday night.

Last winter a short tour was made by the club, and wherever they appeared they delighted their listeners with splendid programmes, which were unusual, but very gratifying in character.

This "McGill Nite" is, in a sense, a revival of the old "McGill Night" of years ago, when the University students staged a production in a downtown theatre. With rumours of the Glee Club also accepting an engagement at a local theatre, "McGill Night" may once more, in part at least, come into its own again.

evidence of their oratorical powers, will uphold the negative side of the resolution that, "Total prohibition as enforced in Ontario would be more beneficial to the province of Quebec than the present Government Control. Mules and Murphy of Applied Science, will do their best to prove the falsity of the statement.

From two points of view, that of subject and that of speakers, the debate should prove one of the most interesting yet staged by the Literary and Debating Society.

This debate will be followed on future dates by a debate between Arts and Law. The winners of these two debates will stage a debate between themselves some time in January. From the victorious teams and from the Mock Parliament, men will be chosen to represent the University in the Intercollegiate Society.

Everybody wants to get the best value for their money. When thinking of buying something glance over the ads. There may be a place a little further away that will save you more than the carfare necessary to get there.

OUTLOOK FOR HOCKEY IS VERY BRIGHT

Several New Candidates Show Much Ability

LARGE SQUAD

Morrison, Monroe, Wyse and Kennedy Newcomers

Hockey prospects at McGill to-day appear to be brighter than they have been for the last two years. The squad yesterday evening put in its first work-out at the Mount Royal Arena, and the form displayed by the puck-chasers warranted the confidence which at present pervades the Red and White camp.

"Pinky" Morrison, a British Columbian, was a welcome addition to the squad, and although it was his first appearance on the ice in three years, he showed plenty of good style.

Another newcomer who showed plenty of ability was Munro, who played with the Varsity Intermediates last year. The Ontario product was by far the fastest man on the ice, and showed great speed in getting away just as soon as he obtained possession of the puck. Wyse, who hails from Mt. Allison, N.B., is another class wingman, who is to be reckoned with. He is a left-handed stick-handler, something which McGill has sorely needed for some time.

W. R. Kennedy, the stellar track performer, is also among the candidates trying out for a position on the defence.

The veterans, Captain Flanagan, Dempsey, McGerrigle and Lynch, put in a good day's work, and there were a host of goal-tenders on hand. Morris, of Alberta, Leo Timmins, last year's utility man, Moran, Brewer and McColl.

Matty Dineen's squad at the Campus rink did not put in their regular practice because of the absence of lights. However, this situation will be remedied by this evening, and candidates are requested to turn out at 5 o'clock. Practices will be held all week at this hour, and men showing improvement will be promoted to the squad at the Arena.

Candidates will be granted attendance for physical training if they will call at the Union basement after the practice. All candidates are reminded that they should be physically examined as soon as it is possible to do so.

BASKETBALL TEAMS PLAY ON WEDNESDAY

Practice Game With Macdonald on Wednesday

Another fast work-out was held last night by the Intermediate B basketball squad. Coach Manley put the men through a snappy practice of passing and shooting before any games were played. Considerable improvement was shown in both departments of the game, but much hard work will be necessary before the season gets under way. Short, fast passes were practised, and the games were stopped several times, and one team given the ball to carry down the floor through a five man defence. The men were changed about several times, and an Intermediate and Junior squad selected.

The Intermediate squad is to play a practice game with Macdonald College at St. Anne's on Wednesday night. Further particulars will be given with regard to the trip in to-morrow's Daily.

Junior B. team opens the season against Argos the same night at Molson Hall at eight o'clock. This game should be an interesting one to watch, as several new men will be playing, and an opportunity will be given to size up the squad.

The following men have been selected for the Intermediate Squad:

R. B. Davis, J. Tanzman, R. Reardon, R. Cummings, S. Shpritzer, H. Altner, A. Granik, I. Rapp, A. D. Starke, A. Quackenbush, G. M. Connor, J. G. Norton.

Junior Squad—B. H. Woodhouse, J. Macdonald, W. S. Neel, E. Butler, C. Heney, W. P. Ferguson, E. M. Milne, G. M. Bright, G. A. Grimson, H. B. Buston.

Tea names of the men to play at St. Anne's and at Molson Hall on Wednesday will be given in Wednesday's Daily.

R.V.C. HONoured BY LADY STRATHCONA

Distinguished Guests Visit R.V.C.

R.V.C. was honored by distinguished visitors in the persons of Lady Strathcona, her son, Capt. the Hon. Arthur Howard, and her daughter, Lady Conington, who attended the concert given by the McGill Conservatorium on Thursday evening at R. V. C.

Lady Strathcona is the daughter of Lord Strathcona, formerly Donald A. Smith, to whom R.V.C. owes its origin. It was in 1884 during the principality of Sir William Dawson that the late Lord Strathcona donated $50,000 with a subsequent addition of $70,000.

WATER POLO TEAM DROPS CLOSE GAME

Intermediates Go Down Before M.S.C.

SCORE 3-2

Red and White Did Not Play Usual Game

Playing their last game of the season with M.S.C., the McGill Intermediate polo team lost out by the score of 3-2. At times play was very fast, but on several occasions a McGill man would leave his opponent uncovered and appear to show the greatest indifference towards the game. Crowding in on the goalie and having one player left to pass to, the M.S.C. swimmers scored in easy fashion. Both McGill goals came as the result of good passing and timely bursts of speed. All three M.S.C. goals were put in during the first quarter, and they retained the lead throughout the game. After considerable discussion and much opposition (from the McGill team), "Pop" Anson, the manager of the McGill swimmers, was appointed to referee in the absence of a more competent official.

Soon after the whistle, R. Bouchard opened the scoring when he broke loose near the goal. Then when Moore had to swim back to his goal-line for a minor foul, the same man went in and scored again. Their third and last tally came as the result of a mis-play by McGill.

Jardine passed the ball out from goal to Phipps, who was covered. Percy gained possession and scored with a fast one. At the end of the first quarter, Vickerson and Murphy broke loose, but the latter was on bottom when he pushed it in. Quarter time: M.S.C., 3; McGill, 0.

During the second quarter, both teams displayed some good passing, and it was on the best piece of play of the evening that McGill put in their first goal. Phipps passed up to Vickerson, who passed, when tackled, to Forsyth, who scored from directly in front of the nets.

Half-time: M.S.C., 3; McGill, 1.

In the third quarter, Percy drew a one-minute penalty, but no score resulted though McGill pressed hard.

Early in the last quarter Moore was given a free throw for being sunk without the ball. He passed to Vickerson, who promptly batted it in. M.S.C., 3; McGill, 2.

Going right in again, Vickerson nearly tied it up with a hard shot which, however, went right into the goalie's hands.

Final score: M.S.C., 3; McGill, 2.

Line-up:—

Goal. E. Duclous
Defence. E. Percy
Forsyth. J. Bouchard

000 in 1887 for the purpose of founding the Donalds Endowment for the higher education of women, such education to be conducted in the buildings of McGill University. It is rather interesting to note that in 1888 the first class of eight women received the degree of Bachelor of Arts, while the ultimate object of Lord Strathcona was realized when in 1899 the Royal Victoria College for women was opened and formally inaugurated by their Majesties King George and Queen Mary in 1901.

During the early course of its existence the college was known as "Donalds" and the students as "Donalds", but later the name was changed to Royal Victoria College but the name of its founder still lives in the name of the "Delta Sigma" Society.

Lady Strathcona succeeded to the title of the family in 1914 on the death of her father. During her stay in Montreal she has reopened the historic Strathcona home on Dorchester street. Lady Conington resides permanently in Montreal while Lady Strathcona and her son, Hon. Arthur Howard, and Lady Howard spend most of the year at their London home.

At the close of the Conservatorium concert a very informal reception was held in the drawing room when the principal, Sir Arthur Currie, and Lady Currie, Miss Hurlbatt and many of the other members of the staff assembled to welcome the guests.

Lady Strathcona was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses on behalf of the R.V.C. Undergraduate Society by Miss Kerr, while Lady Conington was presented with a bouquet on behalf of the R.V.C. house girls by Miss Palmer. In the absence of Lady Howard, Lady Conington also received a bouquet for Lady Howard from the house girls.

There exists a popular though erroneous belief that startling headlines at once relegate the paper that features them to the "yellow journal" class. This, however, is not necessarily the case provided that the headlines are truthful.

Good advertising, more especially that which is of interest to the buyer of the house, often has value as a story, for news is nothing more nor nothing less than that which may interest anyone.

The speaker's reference to Margaret Currie's column in the "Star" elicited spontaneous laughter from his hearers, but he quickly took advantage of this to say that their very amusement betokened their more or less interest in the column, whereupon the laughter ceased as suddenly as it had begun.

Proper names lend the human touch to an article and are often the means of attracting attention to it when it might, without them, go unnoticed.

A type of journalism which has recently developed was characterized by the speaker as a dangerous one. The type referred to was the articles written by "special correspondents." The average reader is not inclined to consider that these articles do not reflect the ideas of the paper, but rather takes them at their face value, believing them to be founded on solid facts. When one considers the environment in which these correspondents live, he must conclude that it is practically impossible for them to write a clear, unbiased opinion of a situation. They are invariably affected by what they hear, and their story consequently develops into propaganda.

The "Human Interest" story, a very commendable feature of journalism, more prevalent years ago than it is today, next occupied Mr. Wright's attention. It is extremely difficult, necessitating restraint, and more than average ability, but is well worth the doing.

The speaker then discussed "interviewing." He laid special emphasis on the advisability of interviewing a person without pencil and notebook, for these invariably cause the person to become reticent, and unwilling to divulge the information which the interviewer is seeking. Questions which are to be asked should be prepared before-hand, and all attempts on the part of the person being interviewed to digress should be gently but skillfully checked. There is often a wide difference between the information which the reporter wishes to obtain, and that which the person being interviewed is willing, and sometimes anxious, to give.

An editorial, declared Mr. Wright, is the very opposite of a news story, inasmuch as it must first of all have a motive, and secondly an opinion in every sentence. It must be gradually built up to a climax, and editorial writers should incidentally not fail to bear in mind that it is not written to be read aloud, but to appeal to the intellect and the reason of the reader. The speaker then proceeded to recount humorous events which took place in his early days as a journalist, much to the amusement of his hearers. Perhaps the most humorous of these took place when he was a reporter for the Chicago Tribune. Having been assigned the task of asking a certain gentleman to confirm or deny in a statement to the press whether he had been nominated for the position of Vice-President of the United States, he unsuccessfully tried to get the gentleman to commit himself.

In desperation he took up his position outside the latter's room and commenced to sing, whereupon the gentleman came out and inquired after his health, but made the terrible mistake of appearing in silk lavender pyjamas. Mr. Wright then assured him that a description of the garb in which he was accustomed to grant interviews would suffice to ruin his political reputation, and through this strategy secured the desired information. The speaker concluded by drawing attention to the column on the editorial page which is open to anyone, and voiced the hope that it would hereafter contain some contributions from the Daily staff.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA IS TOPIC

Economic Club Meets Thursday Evening

"The Government of India," is the timely subject to be discussed at a meeting of the Economics Club on Thursday evening, in the Arts Smoking Room. This will be the last gathering before the Christmas vacations, which should result in a large attendance. Galen H. Craik, and James Calder, Economics students of Arts '23, will read two papers which are certain to prove of deep interest. Craik's paper will deal with the complex history of the Indian Empire from earliest times to the passage of the Government of India Act by the British House of Commons in 1920, granting to India a measure of self-government.

The establishment of responsible institutions, their achievements up to date, and prospects of future development will be the subject of the second paper.

OTHER CAMPUSES

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

Over twenty thousand persons witnessed the Grad-Grad game at the Ohio Stadium last week. This game is an annual fixture and draws a big crowd every year. This year, however, the crowd was extraordinarily large since the benefits of the game were applied to charitable purposes. It should be mentioned incidentally that the Western Grads won the game, being at the long end of a 6-0 score.

Ohio Union was the only member of the Association of College and University Unions which operated last year without a deficit. This was revealed at the third annual conference of the organization. McGill University is not included in this Association. If she were included, the article in the Ohio State Lantern would, perforce, read differently, for McGill Union not only operated without a deficit, but as a matter of fact, operated with a profit.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

Bones of two Indians were discovered by two men doing excavation work on the Campus of the University of Minnesota. The bones lie buried under a gnarled oak tree. Superstitious workmen approach the spot with reluctance, but it is only a matter of a short time now before the bones will be removed to be placed in the University Museum.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY

The following interesting paragraph is taken verbatim from the Queen's Journal report of the recent debate at Montreal:

"The Queen's representatives spent a very enjoyable week-end with their hostesses who entertained them right royally, never did debaters meet under happier circumstances. The R.V.C. girls cannot be too highly praised for their kindness and for the friendly spirit that prompted it."

"We thoroughly agree with the sentiment of those familiar lines: 'What's the matter with old McGill, 'She's ALL RIGHT.'"

LAWRENCE COLLEGE

McGill is evidently not the only college on the map that is hoping to have a gymnasium. A drive for $250,000 has just been launched for this purpose. The time set for raising this fund is set at two years, at the end

SCHARFE TO CAPTAIN INTERMED. A TEAM

Seniors Are in Good Shape After First Game

The Senior basketball team was back on the floor again last night, and working in good shape. The Intermediate "A" team had a rather rough trip in playing against the older squad, but were able to score a few baskets during the evening. Before the practice started the second team elected Scharfe, of Ottawa, their captain for the year. Scharfe played forward on this team last year, and despite his lack of weight was one of the most consistent scorers of the season. He is captain of a team this year that should develop into a strong contender for the title of its section of the city organization.

The Seniors are still developing a line of play that should make them a spectacular group to watch in action. The team work is being developed, and with the Intermediate A team to work against they should be able to show good form when they get loose in the intercollegiate games. The next city league game is to be Wednesday, at the Railroad Y. M.C.A., against the Alerts. The Alerts were Intermediate champions last year, and their power in the Senior League is an unknown factor. The game should be a fast one.

of this period the board of trustees have assured the students that the gymnasium will be built.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

Music, costumes and acting combined to make the fifth performance of "In and Out" given at the Whitney Theatre last week a decided success, and to make it stand out as the best of all Union operas. The Players' Club of Michigan University is slightly more active than that of McGill.

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

Practically every University on this side of the "herring pond" is putting up some sort of theatrical performance these days. Foremost among them is Princeton. Arrangements for the presentation of Tony Sarg's Marionettes in "Uncle Wiggily's Fortune" and "Don Quixote" in Alexander Hall are now complete. Proceeds of the two performances will be given to a hospital.

THINGS TO WORRY OVER

by Psyche

Will some Kink Klim inform the King Kleagle of the Klan that the insurance on the Arts Building would be very welcome?

When the gym is eventually built most of us now living will remark: "I say, James, wheel me down to the gymnasium?"

It is rumoured that the reason why President Harding refuses to attend Conferences in Switzerland is because he dislikes "driving" in the snow.

Those who favour the building of the Student Dormitories have adopted as their motto: "Why sleep in the Classroom?" There are approximately seventy-five reasons—not including demonstrators.

The Daily reads: "Glee Club working hard to make Thursday a success." In answer, no doubt, to those who have always maintained that Thursday is a failure.

The career of many a College athlete resembles nothing so much as a banquet. Just one course after another.

Here lies the Players' Club—Killed by too much co-operation.

"Informal tickets on Sale" reads a Daily headline. Evidently the present-day tendency to discard "Soup and Fish" is being adopted even by the paste-boards.

The Mandolin Club plays at the Allen Wednesday night. Admission will be two plunks.

The members of this Club may not be temperamental, but a good mandolin is always highly strung.

The best reason yet put forward for not building the Gym. and the Dormitories is that they are not really necessary. It is pointed out that students get plenty of exercise looking for boarding houses.

Several Science men have been observed recently in the Redpath Library. No doubt mathematical students, looking over the tables for figures.

ARTS '23 SMOKER TO BE HELD NEXT TERM

The Arts '23 executive met recently and drew up plans for a class smoker to be held before the Christmas holidays. A date had been practically set, but other events unfortunately made their appearance and the smoker has been postponed. However, it is expected that this will be staged immediately after the mid-term. Plans are also being formed for a class party later on in the season.

THIRTY TICKETS TO BE PLACED ON SALE

A long line, extending well up the main staircase formed in front of the ticket shop long before the time scheduled for the sale of Informal tickets yesterday. Practically every ticket available was bought up, there being only thirty left. At noon to-day an opportunity will be given those men who desire to attend, and who have not as yet procured tickets, to do so. This Informal, the last event on the social calendar of the year, will be one of the best yet. The number of tickets on sale to-day is strictly limited to thirty, those desiring them must be on hand early.

AT THE THEATRES

THE IMPERIAL

Several hundred pounds of superfluous weight must have been acquired in the Imperial yesterday if we can believe the old adage: "Laugh and grow fat."

While the vaudeville measured up to the same high standard, it was the photograph, "Love is an Awful Thing," which drew the loudest bursts of laughter from the crowded house. The picture, with Owen Moore, demonstrates the awfulness of love when one is trying to hide one's past and keep out of the way of a friend who formerly belonged to that class of girls known as the "Ladies of the Ensemble."

Hope Eden, a pretty girl astounded the audience with her uncanny powers of mind reading. Her answers came rapidly and must have been embarrassing to some in their "to-the-point-ive-ness." Most pretty girls are mind readers, but none can compare to this daughter of Eve, who must have got her talent—and name—direct.

Cook and Eatman present a well staged song and patter act. Both members of the team have engaging personalities, and they inject real comedy into their catchy songs. The lady not only possesses an alluring personality, but is a real comedienne. Betty Donn has a dainty offering in which she sings songs—even jazz—in a most refreshing manner. An act which sent ripples of laughter over the house was that of Shrinier and Fitzsimmons. These two men tell new jokes in an original way, and intermingle them with droll choruses.

The other two acts are Cornell Leona and Zippy, a pleasing acrobatic-dancing-singing-doggy skit, and Bondini and Bernard, accordionists, who give a lively programme. The Fox News contain remarkably clear action pictures of the Queen's-Eskimo game.

So if your credit is still good with your room mate it is worth borrowing a few cents to see this diverting bill at the Imperial—a house which was, during the past few weeks, McGill Daily's lone theatre advertiser.—S. C. S.

MARITIME-WESTERN DANCE TO-NIGHT

Venetian Gardens Scene of Brilliant Affair

The two extreme ends of the far-flung Dominion of Canada will meet to-night at the Venetian Gardens, for to-night the long-talked-of Maritime Western Dance is to take place.

In all two hundred tickets were offered for sale for this affair; each of these two hundred tickets were quickly snapped up, so that a large attendance is assured.

The executives of the two clubs are extremely fortunate in having secured the Venetian Gardens for themselves for all of to-night. The regular Venetian show, the merits of which are too well known to receive more than mere mention here, will perform for the benefit of those attending after the dancing has ceased.

Following the performance, refreshments will be served. Bearing in mind the proverb that the "road to man's heart is through his stomach," the executives of the clubs have spared no efforts to see that everyone is fully satisfied in this direction.

On the list of patrons for this important social event are many names of prominent Montreals.

ACTIVITIES OF SKI CLUB START SOON

Short Run on the Mountain
December 16

FINE PROSPECTS

Meets with American Universities Arranged.

With the recent fall of snow, the Ski and Snowshoe Club is coming to life once more, and already many have been on the mountain trying out their skills and ability. First and second year men are anxious to receive gym attendance through skiing, judging by inquiries which have been made around college in the last few days. The Club announces in this connection that attendance for P.T. can be secured as in other branches of athletics, and an attendance sheet in a box on the mountain will be available from today at noon until the end of the season. The box is attached to one of the birch trees in the hollow behind the road at the look-out. No doubt it will soon be discovered by first and second year men who wish to sign the attendance sheet within. The attendance sheet will be removed every day, and a fresh one substituted.

On Thursday afternoon, at five o'clock there will be a meeting in the Union in the Music Room for all interested in skiing and snowshoeing. This will be the first large meeting of the season, and important business will be brought up. One matter of interest will be the discussion of a possible trip to the Laurentians later on in the season. Last year such a trip was held, and it proved a great success. A further announcement will be made concerning this meeting.

This Saturday, Dec. 16, the Club is planning to have a short run on the mountain to get the men together, and also to gain some idea of what new material is in college this year. This run will not be in the nature of a competition, but will be more of a get-together run for all prospective cross-country men and any others interested.

Men may join the club at any time by giving their name to one of the men named below. Badges have been ordered and will be distributed to members towards the end of the week.

It is usual for two meets to be held between colleges in the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Association, of which McGill is a member. This season, as for some years past, the meets are to take place at Dartmouth and McGill. The Dartmouth meet is to be held on the 9th and 10th of February, and the return meet here on the 16th and 17th. Events include both ski-ing and snowshoeing. There are about a dozen men on the team and they are picked during an inter-faculty meet held towards the end of January. It is known that there is much new material in college this year, and prospects for a win over our old rival, Dartmouth, are very bright.

The following men will take names of those desirous of joining the club:

Medicine—C. N. Ramsay and R. S. Wade.

Law—W. F. Macklaier and D. Anderson.

Arts—A. R. Stone and N. Egerton.
Science—R. L. Whittall, E. A. Sherrard, H. Smith and A. O. Leslie.

EMBRYO DENTISTS TO MEET TONIGHT

Refreshments Served and Conviviality Expected

The second meeting of the Dental Undergraduate Society of McGill University takes place this evening at 8 o'clock in the Assembly Hall of the New Medical Building. Transaction of business will occupy the main part of the programme.

Refreshments and smokes will be served at the close of the meeting and now that the Sophomore-Freshman initiation is over, a large attendance of Freshmen is anticipated. It is the earnest desire of the executive that as many Freshmen as possible avail themselves of this opportunity to get acquainted with their fellow-dentals.

Among the business questions to be taken up tonight will be the advisability and possibility of holding a dental dance; the question of the dental banquet; changes in the constitution of the society, and other matters closely appertaining to the Dental undergrads.

There will not be any special guest at tonight's meeting, it having been decided to have instead a purely informal get-the-bunch-together evening. The Dental orchestra will live things up during the evening and two solos will be given—one, "if you don't believe it is so, I'll prove it," by W. A. Allanson, and another love song by W. J. McNally. Group singing of the touching ballad about the "Lady from Armentieres" will follow.

Three thousand students working together this week. There shouldn't be much doubt about the Daily campaign.

METHODISTS WIN IN SPEEDY GAME

Amaron Unable to Play for Presbyterians

One of the finest games of the season was seen at Molson Hall last night, when the Wesleyan Theological College trounced the Presbyterian College by the score of 19-18. The Scotchmen were unable to play their star man, Amaron, because of an injury which he sustained in practice. In order to partly make up for the loss their rosters' team was out in force. On the other hand, the Wesleyans were few and far between, but their team came on with the determination to give their opponents, who were also last year's champions, one of the hardest battles of their lives.

When the two teams took the floor the Presbyterian men were much the heavier aggregation; however, when play started it was seen that what the Methodists lacked in weight they made up for in speed and mastery of the ball. Play continued for a short time without a score, and then the Wesleyans scored on a foul. Play became fast and furious, but during the greater part of the first period the descendants of Wesley succeeded in holding their lead despite the vigorous efforts on the part of their brother theologians.

Play continued throughout the greater part of the first period with the score slowly climbing, but the budding ministers of the Methodist order maintaining the advantage. In the last five minutes the Scotchmen hit their stride, and Woodhouse, with the able assistance of the other forwards, netted three baskets in quick succession, putting them six points up. The period finished without any more baskets, leaving the score at the end of the half 13-7 in favour of the Presbyterians.

At the beginning of the last half the game started with a rush, the Wesleyans taking the offensive. The Presbyterians, however, broke through and scored the first basket. This cooled the Methodists down, and by steady playing they succeeded in tying the score. At this point excitement ran high, the rosters of both sides becoming extremely noisy. But the Wesleyans proved to have the staying power, and forged ahead. With only a few minutes to go the weight of the P.C. men began to tell on their opponents, and the shots at the Methodist basket became more and more numerous, causing their supporters several anxious moments. Without 30 seconds to go and the score 19-18 for the Wesleyans, the Presbyterians got the ball at the Methodist's end of the floor, and after taking five consecutive shots at the basket, heard the whistle go for time just as they were preparing for another volley.

The game, which was the second in the Theological League, gives every indication of a fast and interesting series of games in this league.

The line-up was as follows:

| Wesleyans. | Presbyterians. |
|------------|----------------|
| Armstrong | Avison |
| Robertson | Woodhouse |
| Roberts | Lindsay |
| Stewart | Cousens |
| Kellaway | Hutton |
| Beys | Innis |
| | Stewart |

PRACTICE IS HELD BY WRESTLING CLUB

McNaughton Is Victor in Only Bout Staged

After going through a preliminary practice and warming up, in which great skill was displayed by the experienced men and great improvement shown by those new to the game, two elimination bouts were held by the Wrestling Club last night in the Union.

The first had to be called off a few seconds after the start due to the fact that one of the men was injured in the shoulder about one minute after the mixture began. Mills and Delorimier were the contestants in the above, the injured man being Mills.

The second bout was between McNaughton and Fisher, 145 pounds. McNaughton, an experienced wrestler, was victorious over Fisher, a man who has not had much experience. Considering the circumstances, Fisher put up an excellent fight. It took McNaughton four minutes and five seconds to make his two falls. The first was made within one minute and fifty-five seconds after time, the second two minutes and ten seconds after the first. McNaughton had gained his advantage as soon as the bout began and used it throughout to keep the upper hand.

Practice was continued after the bout, trainer Smith showing the men many new holds.

DR. LEACOCK TO ADDRESS CERCLE

"How French Should Be Taught" Is Subject

As announced previously in the Daily, a meeting of the Cercle Francais is being held to-night in the Union Cafeteria at 8 p.m., at which Dr. Leacock will be the speaker of the evening. A debate will also form part of the programme. Dr. Leacock will lecture on the subject of "How French ought to be taught." This will be of special interest to many of the members of the Cercle, who, wishing to increase their knowledge of French have been taking private lessons, with the result that they have forgotten all the French they ever knew.

Being a member of the Economics Department, Dr. Leacock will no doubt outline a more economical and more beneficial method of learning the language as spoken "sur les boulevards."

In addition to this, a debate will be held on the subject, that "The English Language is superior to the French language."

Millington and Franklin will uphold the negative, and Buzzell and Taprell the affirmative. These men have been chosen for their special achievements in French researches and studies. In fact, the latter has written a masterpiece entitled "The Comparative Merits of French and Patagonian Pronouns," which comprises 45 volumes.

A section of the right wall of the library has been reserved to receive this product of student precocity.

The debate will evidently be an interesting one, inasmuch as both teams are in the pink of condition. It has been learned that the negative side have been doing roadwork for the past week, and are confident of making the required weight.

Dr. Villard will act in his usual capacity of Master of Ceremonies.

be covered in Calder's paper. He will include the various situations which have eventuated since 1920, including the non-co-operative movement, headed by Ghandi, now on the decline, and the efforts of the moderate constitutional people who realize that if India is to develop self-government, continuance under the Imperial Crown is essential.

It is expected that Dr. Stephen Leacock will be present, and will take part in the usual lively discussion following the reading of papers.

Students of the University learn with great pleasure that Dr. J. C. Hermon, Honorary Vice-President of the Economics Club, will shortly leave the Ross Pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital for his home in Nova Scotia, resting there some weeks before resuming his lectures at McGill.
